1887 Dec. 29 Thurs. Samuel Edward (Holly) Bush was born at Denham, Buckinghamshire, England, the second child and first son of Frederick Charles and Martha White Bush. His older sister Clara Alice (May) (26 Apr. 1885) loved him like a doll. He was blessed by Thomas Korran - a missionary from Vernal, Uinta Co, Utah. One of the streets close to his home was named Holly, and that became a childhood nickname.

1889 Aug. 18th Sun. A sister, Elizabeth Mahala (Rose) Bush arrived in the family.

1892 Dec. 29th, Thurs. Holly celebrated his last birthday in England and for the occasion his mother decorated his 5th birthday cake with five candles and two small flags (2 1/2 x 3 x 5" high), one of Great Britain in honor of the land of his birth, which they were soon to leave, and the other was the United States flag, honoring the land to which they were planning to emigrate.

1893 Jun. 3rd, Sat. A few LDS missionaries crossed the Atlantic on the same ship, "SS Arizona", from Liverpool, England with the Bush family consisting of: Frederick C. (34), Martha (34), Samuel (49) (Frederick's father), May (8), Samuel E. (4), and Rose (3). The family felt safer with the missionaries on the ship and Ed remembered how wonderful it seemed to be riding on the ocean in that huge ship. The missionaries were very helpful when they got to New York and helped them get on the train to Utah.

After they arrived in Salt Lake City, Utah they had the usual emigrant's experiences in getting settled and found life in a new country somewhat hard to get used to. They were very fortunate that a language problem was not present. They lived in the Avenues so all the children's education was acquired at the Long Fellow Elementary school (now a private Cardon School).

1895 June 10th, Wed. Florence Lilac Bush was born, 2 little sisters. Their home was full of warmth and love for each others.

Nov. 19, 1895 Tue. His father had formal education in oil painting in England, and continued on in this profession in S.L.C. and while he was painting the Assembly Hall, the scaffold broke and let three painters, fall to the ground. He had to use crutches for the next 7 years and the family had very hard times financially, as he was unable to work. During this time his father spent improving his education and reading. The children were taught to be thankful for one another, to love each and share equally.

1896 Holly worked after school and brought home what little he could earn to help out. His first job as a boy was pushing a cart for the Deseret New to the Post Office, to mail papers out of town. His pay was according to the amount of papers that were sold each day. Fridays were his biggest day and he got paid 35 cents, and in those days one pound of butter and 15 cents of round steak was their Friday night treat they all looked forward to. The rest of the week his pay ranged from 10-30 cents for 5 days work after school.

During the summertime both Holly and May went to the East Side Baptist Church on Sat, morning where he took wood carving and made picture frames, hat racks and bread boards for gifts. May learned a little sewing and it only cost a few cents for materials for small gifts.

1897 June. 5th Sat. Both Edward and Rose were baptized by Marc H. Taylor and confirmed by M. S. Woolley.

Holly loved animals and would bring wounded birds to doctor, along with an owl, snake, cats and puppies that he found. The only thing he ever killed was a sparrow and he was broken hearted when he saw it fall. Another summertime job he had, was working to remove dandelions and caring for lawns.

One of Holly's report cards wasn't as good as it should have been in his drawing class, so he drew a very pretty picture on his report card. When his teacher, Miss VanCott, saw it, she wrote a note and put it on his report to take home next month. It read: "Your artistic ability is by no means inferior, but rather superior, although very unnecessary." The whole family read it over so often, that they never forgot it. His school grades were always very good. Their childhood days were very happy, with always a lot of company in their home. Holly had a knack of choosing very good friends and neither he nor his friends ever got into trouble. His lifetime friendship with Edgar Smith developed, he was the only one to call Ed, 'Holly', which was his childhood nickname. Holly had many boyfriends, belonged to a group of 13 called the "'Rusty Dozen", all of who went to the 21st LDS Ward. They enjoyed all sports, fishing, swimming, skooner riding, singing and playing string instruments. The "Rusty Dozen" didn't have time to get into trouble, as they all had plenty of church work, homework, lessons and odd jobs to earn a little spending money. His house chores were to carry in enough wood, coal and water to last 24 hours and empty all the ashes, feed the chickens. Early one spring morning, while with some friends, Holly nearly drowned in Mr. Oliver Reservoir because the water was icy cold and he got cramps. The caretaker was able to get him out and took care of him until he was able to go home.

Many times his father and Ed went fishing and boat riding on the Jordan River. They often brought home carp that was so large their mouths and tails met in a very large galvanized wash tub. The suckers they caught were really delicious the way his mother cooked them, fried in plenty of bacon fat until they were so crisp they could eat the small bones. A neighbor moved away and couldn't take a very high bicycle with them and they gave it to Edward. It had an enormous front wheel and a very small back wheel, he had to stand on the fence to climb on it. He had a chance to trade it and with a little more cash he got a horse and buggy. He kept the horse in the stable and one morning he discovered she was a mare, for she had a wobbly little colt by her side.

father was able to work he got a job through the church at the County Records Office. With the new income, the first thing his mother bought was a piano and sister, May learned to play it. Every Sunday evening each could invite a friend over and they would all gather around the piano and sing, followed by refreshments. Holly sang for many weddings and in many programs with May accompanying him.

Ed worked for Vogeler Seed & Produce Co. and lifted such heavy bags of feed and bales of hay that he developed a hernia, which they didn't discover for many years, although he complained of his stomach hurting. He worked for Meyer & Jensen Grocery store and watched for opportunities to better himself. He was always very honest, which was proven by his employers trust in the grocery stores, they wanted to keep him as long as possible. During the small pox epidemic, both Mr. Meyer and Mr. Jensen came down with chicken pox and while both were sick, Edward took full charge of the store. Mr. Meyer was taken to a rest home where he later died, Mr. Jensen recovered. Mrs. Meyer built a little store and Ed took the opportunity to manage it for her and was her only help for several years, until she sold out and moved to Mexico. After Mrs. Meyer sold her store, Edward managed 1901 Holly graduated from East High School and like all young people he was very anxious to get work, partly to help out the family but also to establish himself in some line of work.

Holly started taking vocal lessons from Prof. Kent and later joined in a quartet with Prof. Kent's sons which gave Edward a lot of experience. Jack & Blanche Sparling and Edward put on Vaudeville skits in SLC and then they toured California, putting on their skit, playing string instruments and singing classical songs. Two songs he sang were "Down in the Deep, Let me Sleep till I die", and during the silent pictures in several of the smaller theaters, he sang, "Down by the Old Mill Stream" and "By the Trail of the Lonesome Pine".

The 21st Ward put on many shows and programs for every occasion and Holly always took an active part as he was willing to sing or act at any time. The ward minstrel show and a beautiful Japanese show were two wonderful successes in which he took part. The scenery, which was used for over 20 years, was all painted by his father.

it for the new owner, Leo Dykes. He took a course in draftsmanship and worked with his father for a little while in the County Records Office.

Each summer Edgar and Ed would get together and hike to 'Sugar Loaf'. He loved to prospect in the mountains North of SLC Cemetery and along with Ed Smith had some claims there. They were however, unable to keep the claim because they didn't do the amount of work that was required.

1907 Dec. 26th, Thurs. May Bush married Arthur Norris.

1909 Jun. 10th, Thurs. Rose Bush married Louis Peter Hansen.

1912 Through some friends Holly heard of a vacancy in the Union Pacific Store Department in Cumberland, Wyoming. He applied for it and liked the promotion from his Salt Lake City life. The church and school entertainment helped promote a little social life and develop talents. There were weekly Sat. night dances, which were James & Edith Wanlass's in 1907 or Fred & Martha Bush's in 1909 25th Wedding Anniversary. During one of the weekly Saturday night dances he casually met his future wife, Edith Elizabeth Wanlass..

MEMORIES AND THE LIFE OF EDITH ELIZABETH WANLASS BUSH

From her personal letters and her sister's, Margaret Schmith

Verbal by Edith M.B. Southwick and Audrey Bush

Compiled by Alona S. Perkes, granddaughter

1892 Edith Elizabeth Wanlass was born Tue. 13 Dec. 1892 at Almy, Wyoming to James Wanlass (1846) and Edith Elizabeth Fowkes Wanlass (1864). To welcome her into the family were: Mary (4 Oct. 1883), James Fowkes Wanlass (8 Jul. 1885), Reuben Fowkes Wanlass (26 Apr. 1887), Margaret (9 Mar. 1889), Earnest (21 Feb. 1891-Dec. 26 1891) all born at Almy, a fine example of brothers and sisters.

"My earliest recollection of childhood was of the modest, but neat, white cottage which they lived in. Mothers cottage was kept so very white with a coat of calcimine or lime each year. A very large log gate opened into the yard, and it was a delight to ride on each time it was opened or closed by an older brothers or sisters, who let someone in or out."

"All of the family attended church (The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints). Every Sunday morning we were up bright and early getting ready for Sunday School, in the afternoon we all had to attend Sacrament Meeting. The Wanlass family was a very large family so we filled one complete bench, which were long benches. Usually one or two of the youngest children would go to sleep during the meeting in the beautiful church house."

1895 Feb. 11th, Mon. Wilfred Wanlass arrived in the family, he was named for Pres. Wilford Woodruff.

"My father was a very strict, frugal and abrupt Scotch Man. One day I went with my father to the store, where he lifted me up onto the soda counter and asked me if I wanted a soda. I was scared to answer but he had a twinkle in his eye, so I nodded 'yes' and got my soda. I seldom had a one on one with my father as he was 46 when I was born."

1897 May 20th, Thurs. William Clarence Wanlass, was born for two little brothers.

"Even with such a large family, mother would always find time to read or tell us stories. The 4th of July was something the whole family looked forward to. Everyone enjoyed the parade and the children especially enjoyed getting in line to receive the candy and nuts they had for us. In the afternoon everyone attended the children's dance held in the bowery. The bowery was just a frame work with a rough board floor and willows cut and put over for a roof. The willows provided a fine shelter from the sun and for seats the parents sat on boards, placed on gun powder cans, around the wall. It was a peculiar thing, but almost every 4th of July a big rain storm came up and the willows just let the rain come through, getting everyone wet. It was all in the day's fun."

"My eldest sister Mary and I had very lovely voices and we sang in many programs, the first time I sang I was so small I had to stand on a table to be seen, at this time my nick name was "Edie""

"Family get togethers were common in both summer and winter. Sage Hen hunting was a time looked forward to, along with oyster suppers both the adults and children enjoyed."

1898 "Just before I turned 6 years old the mine closed down and we moved to Glencoe and Diamondville, Wyoming area where a new mining town was being born. Christmas time, I remember the family get togethers for dinner. Some cooked turkeys, some pies & puddings, others fixed goodies and we usually met at grandma Mary Bacon Fowkes' house to eat. I was told I would be wide eyed and eager as they gathered around the table to eat all of the good food."

"My first memory of Diamondville was my first train ride. My parents made the trip by train to Salt Lake City to attend conference and visit my grandmother, Margaret Wanlass. Baby Wilford went with us and after the conference my eldest brother James came to the depot to meet us and I remember so well his lifting me down from the Union Pacific platform. I also remember the wonderful bonfires we used to have in the evenings, the songs we sang, and stories that were told while potatoes were roasting in the campfire embers."

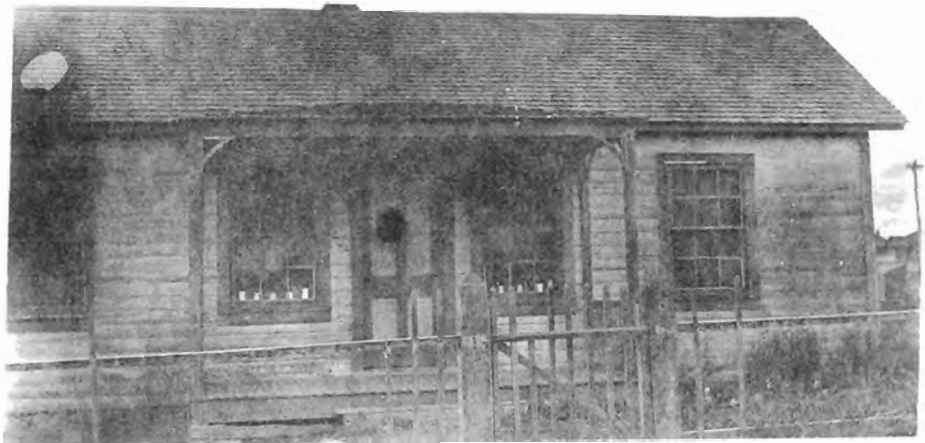

1899 Jul. 12th, Wed. Little Alexander Wanlass joined our family in Diamondville.

1900 Mar. 9th, Fri. "A sad time came to the family when father was brought home from work at the mine which had just had a cave-in. He had a compound fractured leg which was so badly broken that the local physician, Dr. Gamble, was afraid they would have to amputate. There were no hospitals in those days, so he was cared for at home by the physician with mother as nurse. It was pitiful to hear father cries of pain, so Margaret and I would go away where we couldn't hear him. With his strong faith added to that of the Elders who administered to him each night, he held out against the amputation and his leg was saved. He always limped a little and he suffered from it some but he still had his leg. After he recovered sufficiently to get around on crutches, the doctor advised he be given light work of some kind to act as therapy after his long inactivity."

"Father was out of work for a year, so mother decided to take over the company boarding house to help out. When father was able, the superintendent gave him a job sawing mine timber, which did not pay much, but made him feel useful. They kept the boarding house work for 8-9 months but when mother's health failed they quit and moved into a mine company house."

Boarding House

1901 June 15th, Sat. "I was baptized and confirmed by George Haddock."

"Life in Wyoming was rugged but it was a virgin area and consequently we were blessed with good clean air and water which undoubtedly contributed much to our general good health. We had outbreaks of children diseases such as Mumps, Measles, Chicken Pox, Small Pox and the dreaded Diphtheria. We had little way of knowing about preventative medicine in those days. Chief Washakie and his tribe lived in Almy and they would go up the river where Grandma Fowkes would feed them. One day the chief came and Grandma Edith Fowkes only had one loaf of bread left which she gave to him. He put the loaf down and said, "No!" He sat in the corner and waited, for he could smell the hot bread cooking in the oven. Mother used to always slice the bread after buttering the end, as she has seen grandmother Fowkes do. Most times the Indians were really friendly but one day when I, May, and Esther were coming home from taking the cows to the pasture the Indians saw us and because they had been drinking they chased us and lashed us."

1902 April 1st, Tue. "Diphtheria took the life of my little brother Wilford and five days later on Sun. the 6th, little Alex also died of diphtheria. It was a shattering blow to my parents and I was so lonely for my brothers. The cemetery was on a hill a long ways from water and Mother planted some flowers on their little graves. These had to be watered and the job fell on Margaret and I. We had a little red wagon that we would put in two five gallon coal oil cans, fill them with water, then wend our way to the cemetery to water the flowers, back and forth."

"As children will do, they placed pins on the rail road tracks and when the trains ran over them, they made scissors, spoons, knives and shovels from the flattened pieces. Some of the pins were carried away on the train wheels. This activity stopped when the family discovered that the 500 pins bought for sewing were used up in a very short time."

"We picked currents and service berries along the river banks and took picnic lunches with them, then back up the hill into town again. It was a simple life, but very peaceful. One day as we were resting, not far from the church, we heard such a funny sound. By looking around, we saw what we thought were two buggies without horses coming down the hill a little distance off. The buggies were soon where we were and they stopped. The driver of the first one asked us how far it was to town and then he informed us that these peculiar buggies were automobiles. We had a view of the beginning of a new industry on that day."

"Each spring the Hamsford River, which flowed through the area, was high from melting snow so logs were floated down the river to a site reserved as a lumber yard pond. At that point a heavy log was attached to a harness of a horse and pulled into the sawing area where the logs were piled into neat piles ready to be sawed into the proper lengths used in the mines, railroad or various other purposes. The sawing was done manually...at least the sawing where my father worked. It was one of my pleasant girlhood chores to carry a hot lunch, in a pail (bucket), to him each day. Mother always put in a sandwich for me also and it was sheer joy to go over to the fragrant lumber yard. I could smell the aroma of pines all over the area. To play in the fresh, clean sawdust while father ate his lunch was a pleasure beyond words. I can't remember ever going over there except in beautiful summer weather. I grew to know my father very well during those noontime visits. He was always very anxious to get back to his regular work as it paid better wages and he had a big family to support. He was quite an austere man but loved his family deeply and had our welfare at heart."

"During the summertime we used to swim in the Hamsford River with a mine superintendents daughter as our instructor."

"Mary and I were called to different places in Uinta County to sing, and I was told that everyone loved my velvety voice. Two of my favorite songs were "Our Dainty Fair Haired Lena" and "The Spider and the Fly." The applause was really something and I was only 10 years old."

1903 Feb. 15th, Sun. Sister Jessie Wanlass was born, someone for Edith to play with!

1905 Jan. 5th, Thurs. Mary Wanlass married Ephriam Fayette Marshall.

"I remember when my girl friends went over town for a walk one evening, one or two of them had a nickel or dime and a few of them (including me) had nothing. At that time my father was back at his work as watchman for the Mountain Trading Co. Store. He was sitting on the big porch of the store and I went over to see if he would give me a nickel to spend along with my friends. My father had a wonderful smile as he took out his purse and gave me a nickel and a dime. I knew that he was happy to do it and I suddenly felt rich. That didn't happen often as we had a meager allowance and were taught to plan its use carefully, I learned to make a dime go far, but I can't think of a more independent family than ours."

"When I was about 13 years old we moved to Idaho for a year. My older siblings were a contentious and argumentative group, it was said, "with the older group, God just missed the boat". The youngest four were the closest, but I always feared being left alone, I seldom felt like I fit in."

"We moved back to Cumberland, Wyoming where the men were able to get work. We were fortunate to have a nice school house for those times and also very good teachers. Wyoming was in its infancy and we had few high schools and no Universities. Thus our teachers had to be brought from the East, where Universities were well established and were turning out many fine educators each year. Due to the heavy taxes paid by grazing interests on the Diamond Coal and Coke Company Mining Chain, the Union Pacific Railroad and the Mountain Trading Company Store, they were able to pay above average wages for teachers. Wyoming had beautiful autumns and the teachers thoroughly enjoyed them. However as the long, severe winters set in, they did not like it so well and few came back to teach a second term.

Samuel Edward (Holly) Bush and Edith Elizabeth Wanlass Bush

Not only did they dislike the winters but also the lack of cultural and social life, which was a far cry from what they were used to in the East. A few did stay, marry and become staunch, progressive citizens eager to become a part of the community and help in its development. One teacher I will always be indebted to was a Miss Fuller. She helped me recognize my deep love of reading and literature and went out of her way to develop my innate talent along this line. I've always loved the classics, particularly those of Longfellow, Shakespeare, Lowell, Hawthorne, and I must not forget Tennyson, whose works I always admired. I often wondered what influence Miss Fuller would have had on my life if she had returned for another year."

Dec. 3, 1905 Sun. A little brother joined the family, Laurence Fowkes Wanlass.

Edith

1907 "I graduated from the 8th grade, the last of my formal education." (In later years she was so embarrassed by her lack of education that she wouldn't even go back to school to improve herself.)

1910ish "I taught school there for two years. I remember Cumberland as a nice, clean town and progressive community. It was largely LDS but there were also 1 or 2 other religions there. Church and school entertainments helped promote a little social life and develop talents. Each Saturday night a dance was held and it was at one of these weekly dances that I met Samuel Edward Bush, who had an unusually fine baritone voice. He was very helpful at things we tried to do. Ed worked as head bookkeeper in a company store with me along with doing clerical work." Edith fell in love with his blue eyes, dark brown hair and 5 foot 10 1/2 inch frame...

1911 "About this time my brother James (Jim) was either in Mexico or New Mexico and I wrote to tell him that I planned to be married. Jim returned home and told me that the only picture he could bring to

Mr. E. H. Bush,

Salt Lake City, Utah.

Dear Mr. Bush:

Referring to your letter of application of April 21 for position as division accountant on the Northern Pacific:

We have no openings in the higher positions in the division offices on the Northern Pacific at this time. In fact we have only had one change in division accountants since division accounting was installed on this railroad, at which time one of the division accountants left our service for a much better position. The condition of business on the Northern Pacific is such that I regret we are obliged to reduce forces quite rapidly instead of taking on new men.

I have heard very good reports of you from Mr. Biehler and am sorry that at the present time I have no opening that would be at all attractive to a man of your experience and ability.

Yours very truly,

1924 Nov. 13th, We had moved to 2208 Lincoln Street in Salt Lake City when I wrote this letter.

1925 They were transferred to Ogden, Utah for work and lived in a rented home, 813-20th Street in Ogden, across the street from the Deaf School and that fall Edward was able to buy a little home at 510 7th Street. Occasionally Edward would take the two girls and go swimming at the pool, it was always "Special Times". He and Edith M. also sang many duets together with Edith accompanying them on the piano. He even sang a baritone roll in one of the ward operettas. They always encouraged the girls to spend happy musical evenings together as they continued music lessons, learned to recite poetry and give public readings.

Ed had to travel a lot with the Railroad and in the evenings Audrey would walk to meet him and they would race home. He taught his girls to be quiet, enjoy thinking, and appreciate the silence. When needed he would take one of his daughters to be a companion at company dances or dinners, they had a good time.

1925-29 "After all these years of washing clothes on an old scrub board, I got a washing machine. I worked at J.C. Penny's making custom drapes and hand tailored clothes for my girls during their Jr. High and High School years. I loved to knit cozy warm shawls of wool and Afghans to keep us warm in the evenings. I also like to embroider beautiful pillow cases and other items."

"Every Memorial Day I would fix flowers for all the graves in the Salt Lake and Victor, Idaho area. I would buy flowers from people who raised them in our ward and if I couldn't go to the graves, I would mail a huge box of flowers to my relatives to put out for me."

"As a family we would go with Ed on his calls to customers in Cache Valley, Brigham, Utah and Preston, Idaho areas. We would fix a picnic lunch and treats to enjoy together while we waited in a park for him to come pick us up. We would sit on a quilt with a pillow for our backs or under our heads and read a good book, knit or crochet, leaning our backs against a tree trunk. It was one of the best points of our times together, our favorite game was Chinese Checkers, it was fun times together."

1927 Jan. 2nd, Sun. Edward was confirmed an Elder by W. W. Raeson in Ogden 8th Ward.

Edward, Edith and Edith Martha on a trip in 1932

1933 He took Audrey to Idaho, when she turned 14, for her drivers license because he was tired of driving her musical bass instrument around.

"We added a front porch to the living room and moved the entrance from the west side of the house to the east side. Much nicer. Audrey was devoted to the string Bass, Edith M. on the violin and piano. I set to work on the house and had a built in ironing board in the kitchen, Audrey loved to iron and did all of Ed's shirts. We had gas heat installed and changed the basement coal bin into a nice cool fruit room which I lined with bottles of fruits and pickles. I played the piano for Relief Society each week and accompanied the Singing Mothers for many years in the 8th ward, we were one of the first wards to sing in the Assembly Hall for General Conference. I helped on the Old Folks Parties for those over 60."

"It had been the custom to honor those leaving a Relief Society position (piano accompanist) with a going away gift. When they changed the Relief Society Presidency they gave them watches, all they gave me was a black leather purse, I was embarrassed, it was like a slap in the face, so I quit going to church then and there."

Dec. 26, 1933 Edward gets his Drivers license, Edith never learned to drive!

1934 While Edith M. was attending Weber college she (violin) and Grace Jensen (piano) practiced in our living room for hours, preparing music for their weekly radio broadcast hour on KLO in Ogden. I was their critic and was able to suggest help for them, I am so proud of them. One night they reached a special phrase of music that was very intense, and they were in perfect sound with the music, when we heard a sharp snapping sound.

They stopped, wondering what had caused the sound, could see no problem so they finished the solo. I came in and told them how beautifully they had played. I looked at water, dripping off the piano and down onto the music stand. The vibrations of a certain chord, which they had played, had cracked the snap noise we had heard the fish bowl on the top of the piano and had created a leaking point to let the water through. This was an experience we never forgot and was very unusual."

1934 Aug. 5th, Sun. Edward confirmed a Seventy by John H. Taylor a member of the 1st Council of 70's.

1939 July 19th, Wed., Edith M. married Verlon Southwick in the Logan Temple (son of William Isaac and Mary Louise Campbell Southwick). Edith M. continued to excel in her music abilities and taught many children the art of piano, along with teaching school.

1942 Summer Ed was not a carpenter so he helped Verlon built a cabin across the river from the Preston Valley Camp Ground in Logan Canyon. Verlon's brother Raymond & wife Ruby helped when ever Verlon went up, along with the rest. While building the foundation made from rocks, 2 year old Wanless would help by bringing little rocks and he put one upright in the foundation, where it stayed. He was toddling around and the tall weeds were as tall as he, in frustration he said "These dam trees keep hitting me in the eyes!" It was a small one room cabin, unfinished on the inside, just left the 2x4's showing. It had a wood burning stove to heat the cabin, no water or sink (used dish pans) and kerosene lanterns. A lift-up portion of the floor gave access to the cellar where they stored items to be kept cold, or in a little "V" made from rocks in the Logan River to keep items from floating away. They built a necessary "out house" on a side hill, a little ways from the cabin. They went every weekend they could go, Ed loved to fish in the big hole west of the cabin and sometimes Audrey or Edith M. would swim there.

1944 One summer day, Wanless came to visit, needed something to do so was told that he could catch a bird by putting salt on its tail. Everyone was surely amazed when he finally succeeded, and brought one into the house!

1945 Ed's health began to noticeably fail and during the time he was still employed by the Utah-Idaho Central Railroad which extended from Salt Lake, Utah to Preston, Idaho. He spent much time traveling over the area soliciting freight and passenger customers for the Railroad, he was gone a lot but was very happy doing his work. He was very well liked by all who knew him and was successful in his career, raising to the position of General Freight and Passenger Agent for the railroad. Audrey was working in the Railroad payroll office and they were the last 2 people working before they disbanded the Rail Road Service.

Ed was very active in the Ogden 8th Ward Choir and sang in many operettas and belonged to a Ward Quartet which Edith accompanied. He was a talented painter and painted many oil paintings over the years.

"Audrey moved into the Logan Canyon cabin with me after Ed's death and I loved to travel. Audrey and I would plan a trip, one to Canada, Seattle, trip after trip".

1950 "I was very depressed and having a tough time adjusting to Ed being gone, I went to live with Audrey in Seattle, Washington for the summer."

1951 "I went to stay with Edith M. after her third son, Mark, was born on March 28, 1951 in Ukiah, California and helped for about 4 weeks."

"I bought a home in South Salt Lake (33 5th South) with an apartment for Audrey, because her auto fuel was so expensive for her traveling to Logan so another move was needed.

"I started work as an secretary at the Y.M.C.A (Young Men/Women Christian Association) down town for many years to come."

1952 (before Nov.) "I purchased 2/3 and Audrey 1/3 of the Golden Kimball home at 54 E. 1 N, SLC.

This was an apartment house in which I had the main floor west side, a renter had the east side and Audrey had the basement apartment which opened out onto a small grass and flower garden. I planted flowers of all kinds to care for, smell, and enjoy especially dark lilacs and Peace Roses. I started many rose slips (a rose stem, planted in the dirt under a mason glass jar for 1-2 years, until it developed roots and strong enough to be uncovered). I loved to paint ceramics and had a little shop in the garage at the end of the yard, full of items to paint."

Alona, came for a week visit and painted some ceramics as Edith helped refine manners of eating soup: "Little ships go out to sea, so I spoon away from me!" Edith taught children

Dear Alona —
For many years you have been asking me to write you a few memories of my childhood which you, of course, spent in Wyoming. As I have told you many times I don't imagine anything too interesting but, for what they are worth, I try to remember a few for you. You asked me once to go back as far as I could and I think that would be from the time I was about four years old when my parents lived in Albany, Wyoming, where I was born.

I remember the neat white cottage in which we lived and it was kept so very white with a coat of kalsomine or lime each year. A very large log gate opened into the yard and it was our delight to ride on it each time it only memory of Almy. After that we moved to the Glencoe and Diamondville area.

My only memory of Glencoe was the wonderful bonfires we used to have in the evening and the songs we would sing and the stories we would tell while potatoes were roasting in the campfire embers - and never had potatoes tasted so good since.

Hoping for a letter soon,

1977 While living in St. Joseph Villa (a Catholic Rest Home) early summer, Edith M. came and took Edith for a week visit at their new farm in Dietrich, Idaho. The home didn't have a refinished bedroom to use, so Edith stayed in a camper with all the comforts of home. She especially enjoyed the walks to their "Valley" to listen to the birds sing, sit and read a book and enjoyed the clean fresh air. She hated the visit end and requested to stay with Edith M. but because she had to start teaching she couldn't. Edith wanted to stop at each rest stop along the way home as she prolonged
